Read what others say about the magazine...

"I'm thrilled that the Resurgence Trust is celebrating its 50th anniversary! It has been at the forefront of confronting issues such as factory farming for longer than I can remember. Time spent reading Resurgence & Ecologist is something that I savour. Always blissfully designed and presented, it challenges and inspires in equal measure."

Joanna Lumley

"Congratulations to Resurgence on its 50th anniversary! It has never been more relevant or central to the really important issues facing us all. Long may it thrive."

Monty Don

Resurgence was ahead of its time in the beginning and remains so now, shining a light on the cultural, spiritual and environmental aspects of life that are so crucial to our wellbeing and yet so easily neglected. We need voices like this. Fifty years is a fantastic milestone but I am sure there is much more to come.

Hugh Fearnley-Whittingstall

"Every time I open an issue of Resurgence my mind becomes serene, my sense of beauty more acute, and my resolve to work for a sustainable, just, and peaceful world is renewed. Happy 50th Anniversary!"

Fritjof Capra

"In its 50th year Resurgence & Ecologist continues to be a much-needed source of hope, inspiration and practical proposals."

Caroline Lucas, Green Party MP

"About 90 years ago I moved to live in Brixton, South London. It was a huge city even then but real countryside was only a tram ride away. From the tram terminus at Purley, open heathland, village communities and small farms extended to the coast. It was easy even for a child to be Green and to feel part of a natural and truly beautiful world.

The city now extends almost to the sea and the green we now know is the mould on the old boots we once walked in but now are rotting in a downstairs cupboard. We cannot save the planet but Resurgence provides the link that sustains us and keeps alive the sense that we are a crucial part of the real live world, Gaia. "

James Lovelock

"The Ecologist and Resurgence have been at the heart of the environmental movement for decades, leading the debates on the big issues we face. Since these two great titles merged they have gone from strength to strength and continue to generate ideas, inspiration and new perspectives for a resilient, green future."

Zac Goldsmith

"I have been deeply connected with Resurgence and the Ecologist over the years. For me the 50th anniversary of Resurgence is very special. There is no other magazine that covers the issues of our times, with truth and beauty, with courage and creativity. Resurgence & Ecologist are sowing the seeds of hope, of freedom, of the joy of living. "

Dr Vandana Shiva

"I have long treasured Resurgence because it encourages the belief that 'humanity has a choice' - and that this choice can be typified as generous or selfish; kind or mean; thoughtful or thoughtless. Resurgence & Ecologist constantly reminds us that being considerate towards the needs of the planet is another way of feeling comfortable about your own place in the world."

Lord David Puttnam

"A half century as an agent of provocation, a cheer leader for thoughtful social action and an organisation that believes in the muscular duty to Hope, is something to celebrate indeed. I believe Resurgence is important, supporting it is like investing in something that stands on the side of the Angels and it stands for something kind, generous and optimistic in Homo Sapiens."

Sir Tim Smit KBE, Executive Vice Chairman and Co-founder of the Eden Project

"Resurgence & Ecologist challenges us to question, to think, and to respond to the world outside the box. That's why I have the most profound respect for this inspirational magazine."

Annie Lennox

"Resurgence illuminates some of the most profound questions facing our age; thoughtful, passionate and always challenging."
